GENERAL NEWS.

Where Immigrants Go.

New York, Jan 25.—The [illegible] migration commissioners [illegible] not to receive as much [illegible] ers [illegible] migrants at [illegible] during the [illegible] New York. Contrary [illegible] New England has been [illegible] migrants [illegible] than the west [illegible] immigrants [illegible] Of these immigrants [illegible] went west, New York retaining 15,[illegible]

Underground Telegraph.

New York, Jan 27.—A bill was introduced in the assembly to-day providing that telegraph wires must be laid underground.

America's Racing Fund.

The Spirit of the Times says: The racing fund in this country for 1881 will likely approximate $1,000,000. If our breeders and turf men entered their horses as liberally as their English confreres do the value of our racing stakes and purses would reach $6,250,000, independent of trotting, and if we had a national jockey club the racing fund would exceed $2,000,000 in five years from this date.

A Substantial Gift.

New York, Jan 30.—George Jones of the Times says $[illegible],000 has already been subscribed to the presidential fund which is likely to be given outright to Gen Grant. Others declare that Gould, Mackey, Vanderbilt and Edward D. Morgan gave $25,000 each.

Relief for the Jeannette.

New York, Jan 27.—The Tribune prints an interview with Captain Howgate in which he says that he thinks the government will undoubtedly send a relief ship for the Jeannette during the coming summer, and that in his opinion there is no cause for anxiety for the safety of the vessel.

New York Pedestrians.

At 11:47 o'clock Hughes completed his 416th mile, [illegible]ing Rowell's score. He ran easily and with [illegible]d, and a few seconds later turned another lap, which gave him, for 96 hours, the best record in the world. At midnight the score stood: Hughes 417 miles and 165 yards, Cox 392, Albert 390, Vint 398, Howard 388, Krohne 385, Phillips 364, Curran [illegible], Campana, 320. Hughes made his last mile at 12:20 and retired to his tent. An unknown person [illegible] a bowl of soup to Hughes. His wife tasted it and Dr [illegible] became very sick. The Graphic pronounces the match a barefaced swindle.

Stocks and the Public Debt.

New York, Jan. 29.—On the stock board the Oregon Railway and Navigation Co, sold from yesterday's close of 150 up to 167 and closed at 160@164. Total gold arrivals since August 2, at the assay office were $68,435,400. The estimated public debt decrease this month is between $8,000,000 and $10,000,000. During the week among the notably strong investments was the Southern Pacific.

Railroad Progress in Mexico.

San Antonio, Tex., Jan 27.—The International Railway is under contract to Laredo on the Rio Grande, and all the men and teams that can be secured in San Antonio are being employed on the extension.

A Cold Blooded Murderer.

Assumption, Ill., Jan. 27.—A cold blooded murder and attempted suicide, occurred four miles from here Wednesday evening. Theodore Vatrim, a French farmer, deliberately shot his wife, severing her jugular vein, with a shotgun, and two hours later shot himself in the mouth, tearing away his teeth, the upper jaw, cheek and one eye, inflicting wounds which the physicians say must result fatally. When asked the reason for shooting his wife, he said: "I threatened to shoot her. She dared me to do it, and — her, I did shoot her and am not sorry for it." He was a hard case with an odious record.

The Cowpens Monument.

Charleston, Jan 27.—The committee have fixed Wednesday, May 11th, as the day for the unveiling of the Cowpens monument, at Spartanburg, S. C. The statue of Gen. David Morgan, provided by act of congress, will surmount the column. Governor Hagood has invited the president and cabinet and the governors of all the states to be present.

Chicago Press Club.

The election of the Chicago Press club to-night resulted in the election of Hon. W. K. Sullivan, city editor of the Evening Journal.

Horse Talk.

Chicago, Jan 30.—The directors of the Chicago Racing Association to-day adopted a programme for the summer meeting week, ending July 23d. Premiums offered aggregate $39,000, which is the largest for a number of years. There will be extra purses of from $5000 to $10,000 offered for the best time on record in various class races, and, among others, a free-for-all $25,000 purse, with $10,000 for beating 2:10—Maud S and St. Julien barred. Mr. Bem offers to match his pacer Sorrel Dan against Maud S and St. Julien, each to put up $25,000, and the driving park to add $10,000, the winner to take the whole or divide it in a ratio of 75 or 25 per cent.

Branded as Nonsensical.

Chicago, Jan. 30.—The papers for some days have been filled with dispatches from New York setting forth the prospects and intentions of the continental double track railroad from New York to Omaha. A Tribune reporter, who had already interviewed Solon Humphrey, president of the Wabash line, and had been assured by him that the scheme was nonsensical and chimerical, to-day talked with various other railroad men who had no personal interest in the matter, and found them unanimous in the same belief. The road would cost a vast sum of money, as it is proposed that the route will run through the high mountains of New Jersey and Pennsylvania. Bondholders could have no hope of a speedy return for their investments. The opposing lines would at once reduce rates below the prices fixed by the proposed company and being well established and having a paying local business would quickly bring it to terms and compel pooling arrangements or sale of the road. The projectors are not very prominent in railroad or financial matters. An alleged capital of $100,000,000 is pronounced to be as mythical as the road itself. Snead and Abbott, who are mentioned as leading movers in it, were interviewed by the Tribune reporter, and manifested ignorance on the subject, and great unwillingness to talk.

Democrats Discouraged.

Chicago, Jan. 27.—A Journal Washington special says: The Democratic leaders concede to-day that the electoral count rule cannot be passed and it will have to be abandoned. One more attempt will be made, however. Then, if they find themselves unable by lack of a quorum, to force a vote, the measure will be dropped finally.

Perished in the Snow.

Quincy, Jan 27.—A thrilling accident has just occurred near here. On Tuesday evening just before the storm commenced, a miner named Herald, and a lady (name unknown), started to go to the Monte Christo mine a distance of three miles. The storm caught them and they both perished. The body of the man was found yesterday but that of the woman has not been discovered yet. When the news of their loss reached the mine a young man named Robinson started down the mountain on snow shoes to give the alarm and get help, and on his trip he was caught in a snowslide and buried. About sixty men have been hunting for the lost bodies of the woman and young Robinson but up to this hour they have not found either. The lady's husband was at work in the mine, and Robinson perished within a few hundred yards of his home.

Smallpox in Dakota.

Yankton, D. T., Jan 28.—There has been 60 cases of smallpox in Union county, 50 miles east, half of which proved fatal. Both houses of the legislature have suspended all other business and passed an act authorizing a rigid quarantine. A private letter says there are 100 cases near Elk Point. Guards are placed over all entrances of the town. No trains stop at Jefferson, and the mails have been discontinued.

Secretary Sherman has a Talk with Boston's Solid Men.

Boston, Jan 29.—Secretary Sherman was entertained this evening at a dinner given by the Merchants Club of this city and in response to an invitation, delivered an address touching upon the refunding operations of the government and the management of the public debt. The secretary reviewed the financial operations of the United States from the beginning of the government. He approved of the 3½ per cent. bonds and said it now seemed that within a decade the public debt would be reduced to $1,000,000,000—a sum so small that our successors will feel it a very small price for the countless blessings of the generation that fought during our civil war has conferred on them. He foreshadowed the resources hidden in the earth which would come forth in the future and drew a glowing picture of the good time coming.

FIERCE FLAMES

A $600,000 Fire in a Six-Story Building on Broadway.

New York, Jan 27.—Flames were discovered tonight on the fourth floor of the six story brick building Nos. 3[illegible] and 3[illegible] Broadway. Three alarms were sent out but owing to the height of the building and the intense cold the firemen had the greatest difficulty in extinguishing the flames. They did not succeed until the fire had mounted to the top floor and after a hard fight of two hours. The loss amounts to nearly $600,000. The first floor and basement was occupied by Sweetzer, Pembroke & Co, importers and dealers in dry goods. Their stock was valued at $500,000. It was damaged to the extent of $300,000 by water. The second floor was occupied by Lawson Bros., importers of laces and embroidery. Their stock valued at $[illegible]0,000 was damaged 50 per cent by water and smoke. The remainder of the building was occupied by S. & M. Davidson, shirt manufacturers, whose entire stock worth about $50,000 was hopelessly damaged. The building which was formerly used for Taylor's saloon and the International Hotel has been used for business purposes for 15 years. It was purchased in 18[illegible] from William Taylor for $400,000 and is now owned by the American Express Company. The damage to the building by the fire is about $50,000. The cause of the fire is unknown as the building had been closed up before the flames were discovered. All losses are covered by insurance.

WASHINGTON GOSSIP.

Remission of the Railroad Rates—Various Notes.

Washington, Jan [illegible].—[illegible] address [illegible] the [illegible] of Australia [illegible] then that [illegible] vessels [illegible] the remainder of mail [illegible] charges for [illegible] tion of mail matter [illegible] to our government [illegible] freight charges [illegible] lars per annum as entirely imaginary. It does not benefit the colonies. It is expensive to the United States and it puts just so many dollars every year into the British treasury out of which however freight charges are paid.

A Pacific Coast Cabinet Member.

In all the political gossip of the capital California is assigned a representative in Gen. Garfield's cabinet. By a strange unanimity the interior department is given the Pacific slope and the gentlemen named are D. O. Mills, Horace Davis and ex Senator Sargent. It is argued on all sides that if the Pacific states are to be represented in the next cabinet the interior department is an especially proper selection. A western man should be selected to deal with the great public land interests of the country and the management of Indian affairs. There never has been a secretary of the interior personally familiar with the needs of the great material land interests of the west, and the necessity for the selection of some such man is now apparent.

Memorials Presented.

Senator Grover presented in the senate to-day a memorial of the legislative assembly of Oregon asking for an appropriation of $400,000 for the improvement of the upper Columbia river; also a similar memorial for the construction of a harbor of refuge at Port Orford.

A petition of Post 13, G. A. R., department of California, of Cherry creek, Nev., asking the passage of the senate bill for the payment of arrears of pensions to honorably discharged soldiers, was presented to the senate to-day.

Who "Gave Away" the Treaties?

The senate smelling committee on the Chinese treaties did not make much progress to-day. It seems that before swearing the balance of the senate the committee must put each member of the committee itself upon the pillory and this performance is giving the members of the committee considerable uneasiness. Of course the committee cannot call upon the other senators to testify until its members have cleared themselves of the rank offense of giving out the treaty, and this part of the proceeding is a crucible through which these virtuous senators will not pass. Saulsbury, the chairman, specially does not want to be sworn, because to subject himself to such action is susceptible of the suspicion that he is capable of such a crime. The committee's original proposition was to swear each senator in open senate but this was laughed down, hence no other course was left but to swear each senator separately, and how to do this without the correspondents knowing anything about it is what bothers the senate. After the senators and employes of the senate have testified it is the intention of the committee to summon the correspondents who telegraphed the treaties.

The Canal Discussion Closed.

The hearing before the house committee on foreign affairs on Orth's joint resolution to reaffirm the Monroe doctrine in connection with the Panama ship canal came to a conclusion to-day. Ex Secretary Thompson, American representative of the Panama Canal Co., closed the argument on the part of that company, and the subject now goes to the sub-committee, of which Hill of Ohio is chairman.

A New Military Retiring Board.

The house committee have agreed to report favorably to the house Representative Spark's bill which authorizes and directs the secretary of war to constitute a board, to consist of one major-general, one brigadier-general and three colonels, three of said officers to be selected from among those appointed to the regular army on account of distinguished services in the volunteer forces during the late war, and before whom the secretary of war shall cause to appear all officers of the army deemed by him unfit for the proper discharge of their duty from any cause except from age, injury received or disease contracted in the line of their duty, and direct the said board to examine and report fully and specifically the nature and extent of such alleged unfitness and that on the recommendation of such board the president shall muster out of the service any of said officers so reported, with one year's pay, but that such muster out shall not be ordered without allowing such officer a hearing before such board.

Hon. M. C. George at Washington.

Washington, Jan 29.—M. C. George, congressman elect from Oregon, has arrived in Washington. He says in reference to the purported interview regarding his recent visit to Gen. Garfield at Mentor that it was a visit of respect merely and in no manner whatever connected with any official appointment.

Ead's Ship Railway.

At a meeting of the house inter-ocean canal committee to-day the sub-committee on Ead's ship railway bill reported it back with the guarantee section stricken out. They accompanied the report with a recommendation to insert in lieu of the omitted section, a modified proposition providing for the guarantee of interest at 4 per cent upon 15 year bonds instead of 6 per cent. on 30 years, with enlarged requirements as to tests of canals. The capacity bringing the latter up to vessels of 4,000 tons. It was claimed for the modified proposition that a majority of the full committee will favor it.

Important Recommendations.

Horace Davis to-day presented to the house the resolution of the San Francisco chamber of commerce, praying for a thorough survey of the Pacific ocean, for an appropriation of $75,000 to construct a revenue cutter for the service in Alaska, for the payment from the balance of the general award of claims, for war premiums and losses by the exculpated cruisers, and for a liberal appropriation to improve the bar and channel of the Columbia river.

Notes.

The senate finance committee has been polled and a majority found in favor of a long 3½ per cent and $200,000,000 short-time bonds.

Senator Blaine is in his seat, and says he is not going to Mentor, as reported.

A Schooner Wrecked.

Washington, Jan 27.—The chief signal officer has information that the schooner Daniel Goos went ashore on Matagorda island, and that the captain's wife and child and a sailor were drowned.

The Chinese Treaties.

Washington, Jan 29.—At a special meeting of the senate committee on foreign relations, to-day Chairman Eaton, having at last succeeded in assembling a quorum, it was definitely decided to report back the Chinese treaties favorably without amendment. Senator Eaton will accordingly report to the senate at its next executive session, with a recommendation on behalf of the committee, that the treaties are satisfactory in their present terms. To-day's meeting was, of course, a secret and the members of the committee are extremely reticent in regard to the proceedings but in addition to the statement above given concerning the action finally reached which may be relied on as strictly accurate there is reason to believe the proceedings were not strictly harmonious but that on the contrary the motion to report favorably without amendment was carried by only one or at most two majority. It is quite certain, therefore, that the treaties will give rise to considerable discussion in the senate and that they will have to encounter both criticism and proposed amendments but with the percentage of the committee's report in their favor it may be confidently expected that they will obtain ratification at an early day without any amendments.

THE PROPOSED HARBOR.

Prof. Rodgers Reports in Favor of Locating the Harbor at Trinidad.

The senate, a few days ago on motion of Farley, adopted a resolution calling on the secretary of the treasury for a copy of a report made by Professor Augustus G. Rodgers of the United States coast survey on the subject of the proposed harbor of refuge to be constructed on the Pacific coast, at the most suitable location somewhere between San Francisco and the straits of Fuca. The desired copy will be furnished to the secretary of the treasury by the coast survey office and transmitted to the senate early this week; meanwhile your correspondent presents the following summary of its principal points. The subject was investigated by Rodgers at the request of the Pacific coast board of army engineers and his elaborate and valuable report is addressed to Col. C. S. Stewart. He considers at the outset as the most prominent general questions involved:

First—The geographical formation of the Pacific coast relative to natural harbors.

Second—The meteorology of the section of the coast to which inquiry is directed.

Third—The routes of commerce now existing and the future probability of changing. Attention is called to the fact that between the straits of Fuca and San Francisco bay a distance covering nearly eleven degrees of latitude, although there are numerous summer anchorages there is not a single harbor of safe access to a vessel in distress during the southerly winds of the winter. It is next shown that any harbor of refuge located with regard to the interests of any port or fleet on this coast, should be placed to north of that port or fleet for the reason that the storm winds are always from the south while the return of fair weather is marked by northwest and northerly winds. In other words the storm bound vessel should be able to run to leeward for safety. Similarly it is noted that the first local requisite of a harbor of refuge should be the general safety of approach from seaward. After completing his general argument Professor Rodgers furnished statistics of trade and routes of Pacific coasting vessels and proceeded to make a detailed comparison of the different localities proposed for the harbor of refuge. Finally he recapitulates the conclusions at which he has arrived as follows: As compared with Cape Gregory, Trinidad would be more commodious, would be much nearer to the bulk of coasting commerce during southerly gales, equally easy of general approach and much more readily entered with southerly winds and departed from with a northwest wind. An equal expenditure would enclose a more protected area at Trinidad.

Fears of Fenians.

Sheffield, Jan 2[illegible].—Owing to the advent of 200 supposed fenians precautions have been taken against popular disturbances.

A Truce to Remove Corpses.

St. Petersburg, Jan 27.—An official telegram in regard to events prior to the capture of Geok Tepe states that in consequence of the large number of corpses of Tekke Turcomans more or less decomposed lying before and behind the Russian positions and in view of the impossibility of burying them without incurring fresh losses Skobeleff proposed to the Tekkes that they should remove their dead, hostilities to be suspended one hour, and in order to avoid any misunderstanding it was proposed to the Tekkes that they should afterwards reoccupy their positions and should be the first to reopen fire. This was done after due warning given to the Russians, the Tekkes taking care not to fire until the Russians who had temporarily left their trenches had returned to them. The conduct of the Tekke Turcomans was altogether honorable. Fighting was afterwards renewed with the former fury.

Skobeleff's List.

St. Petersburg, Jan 30.—Gen. Skobeleff telegraphs that his losses at Geok Tepe on the 12th inst. were 4 officers and 59 men killed and 18 officers and 235 men wounded. Of the wounded 75 men were but slightly injured.

Diseased Cattle in England.

London, Jan 27.—In the house of commons to-day Chaplin, conservative member for Lincolnshire, gave notice that he would move on the 22d of February to prohibit the importation of cattle from countries where disease is known to exist, as their slaughtering on landing has proved insufficient to prevent the spread of the disease. Mundella, vice president of the council, said there was no official information of the existence of foot and mouth disease among cattle in America but various cargoes of cattle including some landed since the beginning of the present year were infected. He then proceeded to give details with regard thereto.

Sir Thomas Hesketh at Home.

Chicago, Jan 27.—A London special cable dispatch to the Times says: Sir Thomas Hesketh, who was recently married in San Francisco, California, America, to the daughter of Senator Sharon, and wife have just arrived at their estate in Lancashire after a pleasant journey. The police authorities have received warning to watch carefully the jewelry and plate of Rufford Hall.

Lisbon, Jan. 29.—In the chamber of deputies a motion was introduced proposing Portugal's offer of mediation between England and the Boers of the Transvaal.

Conditions of Peace.

Paris, Jan 30.—The Temps publishes the following as the Chilian conditions of peace: Cession of Anto Agosta to Chili, surrender of allied fleet, and payment of an indemnity of $30,000,000, whereof Peru shall assume $20,000,000 and Bolivia $10,000,000. Chili to occupy Callao and work the Grand copper and saltpeter mines until payment of the indemnity is made.

Damage by Floods.

Madrid, Jan 30.—Great damage has been caused by floods in the provinces of Madrid, Seville, Cadiz, Cordova, Badajoz, Valladolid, Lerida, Saragossa, Truel, Jaen, Murcia, Guadalajara, Burgos, Malaga and Barcelona. Railways in many places are under water and Guadalquiver river is still rising.

THE FENIAN SCARE.

Disarmament of a Battalion of Irish Troops.

London, Jan 2[illegible].—Either the government is in receipt of information which forecasts an immense Fenian uprising not alone in Ireland but in all the principal towns of England, or else for some occult reason it wishes the people to believe it has such information. The most remarkable stories are told all over the Kingdom of this impending insurrection and the acts of the government tend to aggravate public alarm into a public panic. Any unusual gathering of men or appearance of any considerable number of strange faces in a town now suffices to spread a wild tale of the coming of the Fenians. In Sheffield to-day there was the greatest excitement over a rumor that 200 of the much-dreaded Fenians had arrived and that henceforth the lives of the townspeople were no longer safe. The city officials immediately issued orders to all their subordinates to take extra precaution. The police force was increased, and a guard placed over all the military depots and every place where there was any considerable number of arms, but the great scare soon subsided, when it became known that the 200 terrible Irish conspirators were in reality only a few poor Irish workmen who had come into the city seeking labor. After the action of the government to-day however the people will have good reason to be alarmed. The second battalion of the Eighth or Royal Irish regiment of foot stationed at Aldershot and under the command of Lieut. Col. Gregorio, has been disarmed. Of course, nothing can explain such a step excepting the belief that the troops have become imbued with Fenianism and may join in the rebellion which is too soon to come upon us.

Analysis of the Blue Books.

The home rule members at a meeting yesterday appointed a committee to analyze the blue books giving the details of agrarian offenses in Ireland for the first nine months of 1880. The analysis is to be circulated among the members of the house of commons.

It is understood that Michael Davitt will quit Ireland after the passage of the Coercion bill.

Land League Funds.

Davitt is visiting London on his way to Paris to invest a considerable amount of money belonging to the land league. It is stated that the league has already invested £4[illegible],000 in foreign funds.

Views of the Clergy.

Dublin, Jan 27.—The Catholic clergy of Ireland at Maynooth have resolved that immediate and thorough reform of the land laws framed and the principles of justice to all existing rights would call back peace and security but they fear the fictitious calm caused by coercion may encourage the house of lords to reject or nullify the land bill.

SAFETY ON STEAMERS.

A Proposition to Secure it by the Better Discipline of Crews.

Washington, Jan [illegible].—At a meeting of the supervising inspectors of steam vessels to-day the president, Gen. Dumont, submitted an extract from his annual report referring to the loss of the steamer Sewanhaka which was burned on June 28, 1880 and in which reference is made to rule 57 of the steamboat rules and regulations. General Dumont recommended that the board adopt an amendment to this rule in order that it might be applied to all classes of passenger steamers except ferry boats with a proviso that river steamers may exercise their crews at quarters while lying at wharves. The rule referred to as it stands is as follows:

Rule 57—It shall be the duty of the master of every inspected steamer carrying passengers on the ocean, lakes, gulfs or bays when such steamer is under way to cause to be prepared a station bill for his own department and one also for the engineer department in which shall be assigned a post or station of duty for every person employed on board such steamer in case of fire or disaster, which station bills shall be placed in the most conspicuous places on board for the inspection of the crew, and it shall be the duty of such master or of the mate or officer next in command once at least in each week to call all hands to quarters and exercise them in the discipline and use of the fire pumps and all other apparatus for the safety of life on board such vessel and to see that all the equipments required by law are in complete working order for immediate use. The fact of exercise of crew as herein contemplated shall be entered upon the steamer's log book stating the day of drill and hour when so exercised. Any neglect or omission on the part of the officer in command of such steamer to strictly enforce such rule shall be deemed cause for revocation of the license of such officer. The matter was referred to the committee on discipline of officers.

A long discussion ensued as to the advisability of making certain changes in rule 10 of the steamboat regulations. The following is the text as it now stands:

Rule 10.—All steamers hereafter constructed for navigating the ocean, sounds, bays, lakes and rivers and subject to the jurisdiction of the board shall have a clear space of not less than sixteen inches on all sides of the boilers and at the back end of all such boilers there shall be a clear space of two feet.

Regarding the practicability of changing this rule the supervising inspector general says that only a modification of the rule if any should be made with deference to small steamers of [illegible] tons or under.

A Mad Dog in New York City.

New York, Jan 2[illegible].—A mad bloodhound of great size ran about the west side of the city on Wednesday night and this forenoon biting some fifteen persons so far as heard from before it was killed by a policeman.

REVIVING WAR ISSUES.

Debate in the House over the Bill to Pay Captain Page's Widow $[illegible].

Washington, Jan [illegible].—In the house [illegible] Captain Page [illegible] war [illegible] the several who had been given [illegible] to strike the country [illegible] Conger [illegible] said that gentlemen over the way [illegible] some gentlemen on the other side [illegible] the picture [illegible] drawn [illegible] exhibition of the effort [illegible] was capable under adverse [illegible] brighter the republican side [illegible]. He had never heard of a proposition to repeal the statute which prevented the payment of the pension [illegible] except remarks (by Blackburn) made incidentally. He believed that when the democrats [illegible] control of both houses and the presidency they would repeal the laws which [illegible] and which [illegible]

Blackburn (D.) asked the gentleman [illegible] He sense as one of the lesser lights of the republican party had done before him.

A long and amusing colloquy ensued, at the conclusion of which Conger finished his speech.

Goode (D.) desired to make a correction of the report submitted by the naval committee. The report stated that Captain Page had entered

THE CONFEDERATE SERVICE.

He had not done so, but he (Goode) had no doubt he would have done so but for his advanced age. Captain Page would not thank him for representing to the American congress that he (Page) would not have gone into that struggle with his native state.

Conger replied that he could do justice to the boy who had done a gallant service on the waters of Lake Erie and to the man who had been loved and respected until the fatal hour had come, and he would say he believed that if that man was alive now the recognition of his association with the beloved flag of his country would prevent him from ever coming here and asking for a pitiable sum, less than $200.

House (D.) supported the bill and said it was not the first time Conger had bawled himself hoarse and had waved the bloody shirt in order to cover the cause of injustice.

Cox (D.) rebuked Conger for opposing and congress for debating over so paltry a sum so justly due and allowing such a spirit to prevail fifteen years after the war had closed and even after the election. He complimented Garfield and condemned those who were building up his administration in advance upon these obnoxious doctrines.

Chittenden (R.) also favored the bill.

Bragg (D.) compared his case to Benedict Arnold's. The latter had fought nobly, bravely and well but deserted his country's flag in the trying hour. Captain Page fought bravely on Lake Erie and it had been better that he died sustaining the flag of his country in that glorious battle than in his later years have spat on that flag by resigning his commission in the hour of his country's peril. If the woman was to be paid because she was old and poor that was one thing, but if congress was to pay her because she was the wife of a man who resigned from his country's service that was another.

HE WHO DESERTS HIS COUNTRY'S FLAG

in the hour of peril is entitled to no respect from that country afterward, unless what she may give him by way of gratuity. I should say the gentlemen who broke the constitution and fled from it are not the men to hold it up before me. I am anxious never to hear again the subject of the southern rebellion discussed. I would fain wipe it out forever from my eyesight and memory, and I say to my friends in the south who ask the people to do this, do not continue it on the claims calendar of this house and keep it a live issue by constantly endeavoring to get from the treasury something which involves discussion.

Hawley rep[illegible] said he would not object to the simple payment of this amount, but he did object to the statement that it was as binding as any bond.

Goode asked if Page's crime was to be visited on his wife and children, and if Hawley would follow him to the grave.

Hooker (D.) said Benedict Arnold was a traitor for a consideration. No southern man took up arms for money. Who thought of branding R. E. Lee, Stonewall Jackson and A. S. Johnson like Benedict Arnold? He eulogized Lee for his course after the war. Nobody desired peace and oblivion of the past more than southern members.

Bright (D.) said if the friends of the bill would withdraw it he would give the woman a check for the whole amount.

Goode declared that the woman did not come begging alms but demanding her rights and if the government would repudiate this debt it would repudiate any other.

The debate ceased and the bill will be reported favorably to the house.

The committee then rose and the house adjourned.

SENATOR SPRAGUE'S STORY.

Charges Contained in his Petition for a Divorce.

Providence, R. I., Jan 27.—In the office of the clerk of the supreme court of Washington county to-day William Sprague filed a petition praying for a divorce from his wife Katherine Chase Sprague. The petition recites the facts of their marriage and says that he has ever since on his part kept and performed all his marriage covenants but that said Katherine Chase Sprague, unmindful of her marriage vows and disregarding her marriage covenants hath violated the same, that she has willfully, and without cause, deserted the bed and board of your petitioner which desertion although not for a continued term of five years, yet was under such circumstances as to entitle him to a decree of divorce, that she has committed the crime of adultery, and has been guilty of other gross misbehavior and wickedness repugnant to and in violation of her marriage covenant, that she has persistently and against the express wishes and commands of your petitioner and after great public scandal had been occasioned thereby kept the company of and been in terms of close and improper intimacy with other men, and of some men whose names had been associated with hers in the public scandals aforementioned; that she has repeatedly declared without cause, that she would never live with your petitioner again; that she denied to him and his household cares and duties incumbent on her as wife and mother to fulfill; that she has, without cause turned and driven her oldest child and son out of doors; that she has persistently, and against the will of your petitioner, squandered his property and means by engaging in the most lavish, extravagant and foolish expenditure of money; that since the financial embarrassment of your petitioner in 187[illegible] and after repeated entreaty, request, demand and command to the contrary by your petitioner and after a full explanation to her by him of his financial situation and the inevitable effect of such proceedings on her part, yet said respondent notwithstanding the same, has still persisted, so far as possible, in the same reckless, extravagant, lavish and foolish expenditures of money and style of living thus further (as explained and pointed out to her in the manner aforesaid) embarrassing and defeating your petitioner in his effort to extricate himself and any remnant of his estate commingled with the estates of others from said financial difficulties and embarrassments; that she has many times since her marriage with your petitioner and against his wishes absented herself from his house and household for long periods of time living abroad and at hotels, thereby subjecting your petitioner to further great expense and depriving him of her society and assistance to which as her husband he was entitled; that she has willfully persisted in a course of slanderous and abusive language and the publication of slanders concerning your petitioner with a view and purpose of harrassing, vexing and annoying him with such effect, thus rendering his life miserable and thus destroying his domestic peace and the happiness incident to the marriage relation. Wherefore, your petitioner prays that a decree of divorce from said Katherine Chase Sprague may be granted.

Sprague Again.

Providence, Jan 30.—Dr. J. B. Green, a distant relation of Sprague who for some months has been custodian at Canonchet has been summarily dismissed and his family ordered out. It is well known that Sprague missed valuables. He has ordered their restitution and has instructed the old housekeeper who superintended the packing of Mrs. Sprague's effects to prepare an inventory of articles missing.

MUNICIPAL REFORM.

A New Charter Proposed for the City of New York.

Chicago, Jan 27.—The Inter Ocean's New York special says: An important new charter for New York city was reported in the legislature to-day by Senator Dennis McCarthy of Syracuse, whose committee spent some time last summer investigating the departments here. Three republican members of the committee sign the bill and one democrat and one republican did not sign it. It makes sweeping changes throughout the whole municipal government, setting municipal elections for spring, the first of them to come off this spring, giving the mayor practically full control of the city government, giving him authority to nominate the heads of departments without confirmation by the board of aldermen and to remove them without the approval of the governor, putting the street cleaning in his charge and in a word conferring upon him great powers and equal responsibilities. The enormous and anomalous powers of heads of departments, some of whom can now involve the city in expenditures of millions without check or hinderance anywhere, are abolished. There is a general consolidation of bureaus and departments and sweeping away of sinecures. It is said that the bill will save $300,000 a year to the city. The political animus of the bill, if it have any, is not very clear. Senator McCarthy, the chairman, seems to be in earnest for reform but it is suspected that the Cornell republicans will use the bill to strike at Arthur republicans who are largely represented in the city department. The bill creates intense excitement among office holders of both parties, who will doubtless oppose it vigorously as it virtually legislates the whole city government out of office this spring.

AMERICAN SHIPPING.

Its Decadence Debated in the National Senate—Beck and Blaine Propose Remedies.

Free Ships Advocated by the Kentucky Statesman—The Senator from Maine Favors Subsidies.

Washington, Jan [illegible].—In the senate to-day Beck [illegible] repeal [illegible] that the United States was without a merchant [illegible]. The imminent danger to the United States in a foreign war with our defenseless commerce [illegible] was next referred to. Our surplus [illegible] largely agricultural and so great that it [illegible] and thus countries England and France were [illegible] our carrying trade. If this were so then it was evident that we might [illegible] the best terms with the belligerents [illegible] would suffer [illegible] than they [illegible] our products would go to the bottom as the cruisers of each destroyed the merchant vessels of the other. The only remedy was for us to do our own hauling. The great producing interest of the west was perhaps the one most interested in this question of cheap transportation, because all the cost of transportation both to the seaboard and over the ocean to a market came out of the man who raises the product that is to be transported. Whatever diminishes the cost is to his benefit and whatever adds to it has to come out of his pocket. All subsidies and bounties only add so much more to his burden in taxation and fail to accomplish the remedy.

THE ONLY REMEDY.

Cheapness of transportation is the only remedy and a ship is only a wagon adapted to the highway over which it travels. Our treaties with Germany, Norway and Sweden and other countries gave them all the privileges of our own citizens in our own ports, so that while all of them are doing their carrying trade in free cheap ships we are keeping up our navigation laws to injure our people. Beck then proceeded with an elaborate discussion of the tariff, with the inequalities of protection and its alleged operation in fostering monopolies at the expense of the poor man. Incidentally digressing in this connection to notice the estimate of the commissioner of pensions that over $400,000,000 would be required to meet the expenses of the pension arrearages act he remarked that the pension act (which he was fortunate in having voted against) would prove a heavier tax and a more enduring burden than the national debt.

Beck's speech was listened to with the marked and thoughtful interest of an almost full senate and crowded galleries, the compliment of a unanimous vote being tendered him upon the expiration of the morning hour to enable him to proceed.

BLAINE'S REPLY TO BECK.

Blaine (R.) followed in reply to Beck. He construed the senator's speech as an admission that his policy looked forward to and proclaimed the permanent dependence of this country upon England for her ships. It was a remarkable fact that for twenty years, or from the time of the war to this hour, the congress of the United States had not done one solitary thing to uphold the navigation interests of the United States. The great march forward of our old commercial rival had been witnessed and everywhere recognized and the representatives of the people of the United States had sat in their two halls of legislation as dumb as though they could not speak and had not offered a single remark or aid until the senator from Kentucky (Beck) had risen in his seat and proposed to make proclamation of the perpetual dependence of this country upon England for such commerce as she may enjoy, holding up to us Germany, Italy and other European countries that are as absolutely dependent upon Great Britain for the commerce they enjoy as the District of Columbia upon congress. During these twenty years this congress had passed ninety two acts in aid of internal transmission by rail. It had given 200,000,000 acres of public land worth to-day $1,000,000,000 in money, to which it had added $70,000,000 in cash to the same end, and yet it had not extended the aid of a single dollar to that vast external transportation whose importance had not been exaggerated by the senator from Kentucky.

THE REMEDY.

The United States could not win in this governmental international struggle without adopting exactly the same means that had achieved victory for others. What was that? It was not to help John Roach or anybody else, but to make a great and comprehensive policy that shall give every man and every company specific aid of so much per mile for such a term of years. Let the Mexican nation feel that the government of the United States is behind them. Let the United States only appropriate from her treasury per annum $4,000,000, the same sum that Great Britain is paying only as a postscript to $200,000,000 of investment, and let that be used as a fund to stimulate any company from any port of the United States to any foreign port plying. Blaine explained that he was not a prophet, or a son of one, but if this was done, he ventured to predict that the long deferred and much desired event, the revival of the American steam marine, would soon arrive. He would have the country do one thing more, to which England had pointed the way for us. We have nine navy yards and are without a navy. If we would put the expense of these navy yards into the building up of great private shipyards this would form a subsidy enough, or aid enough if Senator Beck liked that word better. It would help enough from the saving in the construction of naval vessels to float this whole scheme for the revival of American navigation. The election had shown that public opinion in this country was in favor of keeping up American against foreign manufactures, and he would say to upholders of protection that this could not be done by the destruction of the commercial marine of the country.

BECK IN REBUTTAL.

Beck briefly replied. He said that he was glad that his presentation of what he thought was the best policy had called forth the premier of the next administration. The senator from Maine had not denied, because he knew it was true, that we had no foreign carrying trade, nor that it had dwindled since the war, nor that we gave $120,000 per year to build up the trade of our rival and weaken ourselves, nor that while we give the right to Germany, England and France to carry our goods from our ports in cheap free ships, we are handcuffing ourselves, nor that instead of having 60,000 or 70,000 American sailors as we had in war, we now have none. We have no defenders of our coasts. The senator denied none of the facts asserted by him (Beck) but his (Blaine's) remedy for it all was the further taxation of the people, for subsidies meant taxation and nothing else, and the policy of a subsidized line under John Roach or any other individual would be to destroy the competition of its rivals, then double its charges and create a monopoly. After reference to the alleged monopoly of the coastwise trade Beck replied to Blaine's allusion to the democratic tariff for revenue plank, by stating that a stronger plank was contained in the platform of that party in 1860, when that party carried the country though cheated out of its victory, and that as the popular vote in 1880 also showed a majority for the democratic candidate the alleged condemnation of that policy could not have been very strong after all. The resolution was then laid on the table without action.

King Kalakaua at San Francisco.

San Francisco, Jan 30.—Among the passengers arrived yesterday on the steamship City of Sydney, were His majesty Kalakaua, king of the Sandwich Islands, and Messrs. Armstrong, Judd and McFarlane [illegible]. The king will remain a short time in San Francisco, going hence to China where he will investigate the subject of Chinese labor and its relation to the islands. It is probable that the party will then proceed to Europe via the Suez Canal, returning home across the continent by the Southern Pacific route.

During the king's former visit to California he was tendered many marks of esteem and friendship by the citizens of San Francisco. A reception was given in his honor and numerous fetes and receptions given him. Prominent among these was the supper given by the mayor at which the [illegible] of San Francisco were assembled. Should Kalakaua's visit on this occasion be sufficiently protracted the former cordial disposition evinced will doubtless be repeated. The king is traveling upon this occasion incognito as a simple prince and it is understood wishes to be treated in no way different than other gentlemen of position would be.

Redskin Ravages in New Mexico—More Slaughter.

Las Vegas, Jan 2[illegible].—Two companies of troops are camped at Ojo Caliente and are nearly out of provisions. They sent a courier to Fort Craig and he was chased by Apaches till within five miles of the fort. It is suspected that the Indians will attempt to make a break of the supply train when it is sent out.

The bodies of four women and children, all Mexicans and all victims of Indian fury, have been brought to San Marcial, making eleven persons from that town alone who have been killed within five days past. A squad of cavalry put to flight some Indians who were rapidly closing in a man and woman after defeating a party of citizens who had come to their assistance.

A report comes from Albuquerque that the red skins are on the warpath near San Jose. Three miners were killed at Chloride gulch, horribly mutilated and burned.

General Hatch has sent out fifty Indian scouts and they are now scouring the country.

Nevada Legislators at Work.

Carson, Jan 27.—In the senate the bill cutting down the fees of county recorder was lost.

Haines introduced a bill to relieve the bonanza firm from paying back bullion taxes and penalties.

Gallagher's bill making it grand larceny to steal any kind of live stock was passed.

Powning introduced a new bill to provide for the care of the insane.

Williams' memorial against the Central Pacific will be reported to-morrow.

Committee of the whole reported favorably on the bill to remove the state prison to Reno, with an appropriation of $80,000 to finish the walls already built at a cost of $100,000. It is likely to pass the assembly to-morrow. The movement is generally reported as the hight of extravagant folly—sending good money after bad.

Nothing remarkable was done in the assembly. Gage and Terrington are lobbying hard.

PORT TOWNSEND NEWS.

Weather Observations at Neah Bay—Two Men Drowned—A Schooner Ashore—The Seals Of Cape Flattery.

Port Townsend, Feb 3.—The meteorological observer at Neah Bay reports as follows: Highest barometer during the month of January, 30.78, on the 20th; lowest, 29.19, on the 24th; mean, 30.5; highest temperature, 53, on the 2d; lowest 26 on the 16th; mean 43. Prevailing winds northeast, maximum velocity 60 miles; total rainfall and melted snow, 8.78 inches; depth of snow at close of month eight inches; snow fall during month, 22 inches; frost on eleven mornings; very bright lunar halo on the 13th, followed by a clear, pleasant day. The weather during the month has been marked by a prevalence of strong easterly winds and gales from the northeast. The quantity of rain and snow has been 45.27 inches less this year than in 1880, but the east winds have been more violent, thus preventing sealing.

On the 19th of January the sealing schooner Champion went ashore on Wadda Island, and was hauled off by the English gunboat Rocket on the 24th, without damage.

A man named Henry Stanley, of Quillihute, who had been on a visit, was returning to Neah Bay. He reached Callam Bay on the 14th, and started from there about 4 P. M. alone in a canoe belonging to Charles Willoughby, keeper of the life-saving station, with another canoe in tow. Nothing has been heard of him since.

On the 24th inst. Mr. Willoughby, with two Indians, started to follow the beach to Clallam bay and found the canoe that Stanley was towing hauled up at an Indian summer camp about five miles from Neah bay, but saw nothing of the other canoe or man. So he is supposed to be drowned.

Plenty of seals are reported outside Cape Flattery, but none have been taken, owing to the boisterous weather.

Capt. Stone, of the bark Dublin, now in Seabeck loading, reports that on December 13th, during a heavy northeast gale off Cape Beal, a seaman named Henry Hendricksen, while shifting the lever over the pump, fell overboard and was drowned. Deceased was a native of Finland.

Repairs on the Dublin have been completed, and she will sail on Saturday for Vallejo.

SATURDAY MORNING, FEB. 5, 1881.

NATIONAL IMMIGRATION BOARD.

A measure has been introduced in congress which is right in its purposes, and if properly carried out cannot fail to be of much advantage. It is a bill to provide for the national regulation of immigration, and proposes to appropriate $250,000 annually from the public treasury for the purposes. Hitherto the general government has done nothing in this direction, though the states, which first receive the European immigrants have, to some extent, looked after their interests. The necessity of a properly organized system for the regulation of immigration and for the reception, protection and aid of immigrants on arrival, has been fully recognized in some of the states, and New York established such a system over thirty years ago. It was maintained until 1876 by a fund derived from a per capita or head tax, which the owners or masters of emigrant vessels were required to pay to the state, but which of course they did not fail to collect of the immigrant before they landed him. This was found to be of great advantage, inasmuch as it furnished the immigrants who arrived with the means of obtaining honest information of the country and hedged them in from the sharks, who before waited eagerly the arrival of every vessel in order that they might plunder the people who came to the country ignorant of its customs as of its language, and who might not have friends to meet them. But in 1876 the supreme court decided that the state law, from which the immigration commission derived its support, was unconstitutional, and since that time the means for continuing the important work have depended solely on appropriations made by the state legislature for the purpose. New York naturally has become impatient of this burden and claiming the immigrants are of benefit to other states as well as to herself, the whole country should be taxed to support this necessary work. Hence, the bill alluded to in the outset has been presented by a member of congress from New York city.

The present is certainly a time when the necessity for something of the kind is obvious. The year just closed is memorable for the fact that the number of immigrants arriving in the country from Europe touched a higher point than was ever before known. Over 320,000 were landed at Castle Garden alone, being about 2000 more than in 1854, which comes next to 1880. The number last year was nearly twice as great as in the preceding year, five times as many as in 1878, and about six times as many as in 1877. From the close of the war, down to 1873, the number of aliens landing at Castle Garden did not fall below 200,000, in any year. But, as shown by the Herald, from 267,000 in 1873, it dropped to 140,000 in 1874, 84,000 in 1875, 68,000 in 1776 and 45,000 in 1877. These figures, says the same authority, taken with those showing the number of arrivals during and following the war, throw much light on the causes that produce the marked fluctuations that occur in the tide of immigration. Some publicists have sought the chief of these causes in the country left by the emigrant. Hard times, distress, political troubles, war, etc., unquestionably have a tendency to drive people from their native to foreign lands. But no one can study intelligently the fluctuating stream of our immigration without seeing how largely and surely it is affected by causes operating in this country. Thus the tide which had been high during the preceding decade quickly sank under the influence of the commercial panic of 1857 and the breaking out of the rebellion. After the close of the war, when prices were inflated, employment abundant and money plentiful, the number of aliens coming to the United States rapidly increased, until it reached, in 1872, the highest figure that had been known in any year since 1854. With 1873 came commercial depression. Then the flow of immigration suddenly fell to a low ebb and remained at a low ebb until the dawn of better times. Doubtless many suppose that the great influx of foreigners to this country last year was largely due to the unfortunate condition of affairs in Ireland. But this is not so. In the arrivals at Castle Garden, there was no material increase of the Irish over other nationalities. The present high tide of our immigration can be explained only by the high tide of our national prosperity.

The part that immigration has played in the great agricultural development of the western and northwestern states can hardly be overestimated. The large percentage of foreigners in the population of many of these states and territories, show that this part of the country has been and still is the destination of a great percentage, particularly Germans, seeking homes in the United States. With this increase of population in the northwest has come a remarkable growth in agriculture. To say nothing of other crops, the wheat production of the United States has increased since 1865 from one hundred and fifty million bushels, to nearly five hundred million. The corn product has shown a proportionate increase, and from comparatively nothing fifteen years ago, the exports of live stock to Europe have risen to nearly ten million dollars a year at this time. To attribute these great results to immigration entirely would be wrong, but it cannot be denied that there is an important relation of cause and effect between the stream of immigration that has been steadily flowing from Europe to the northwest states and territories and the current of breadstuffs and live stock that has set in from the United States to Europe. This relation ought to be sufficient to justify congress to give national aid and protection to the worthy people who are seeking homes on our shores, and at the same time the law which is designed to take care of the good intentioned and innocent should be framed to meet with the hand of justice those who come to augment the criminal classes. No provision at all ample has ever been made by our government for either purpose and hence in every city almost the same report is made of a large percentage of criminals being of foreign birth, and the oft-expressed fear shared by our correspondent Americus, whose letter we publish to-day.

THE DEMAND FOR MEN.

Hon. A. H. H. Stuart, who was a member of Fillmore's cabinet, has recently written a letter in relation to the future of old Virginia. He takes a hopeful view of that future which is all the more gratifying from the reasons he assigns for it. He says:

> Virginia wants not closet men, learned scholars, or brilliant orators, but men of affairs—earnest, practical business men—men, competent to deal with and push forward the material interests of the state. While we should hold on to the classics and mathematics and other studies so well adapted to strengthen and discipline the intellectual faculties, greater prominence must be given to those branches of physical science which tend to qualify men for the practical business of life.

Of old, Virginia was celebrated for her closet men, learned scholars and brilliant orators. Brilliancy seemed the characteristic of her leading men of the past, but her mines lie undeveloped and her vast resources have remained unused. Brilliancy never digs coals, sinks shafts nor builds railroads. Vast territories, great empires are calling for men and are always careful to say, not "closet men, learned scholars or brilliant orators." All want "men of affairs, skilled engineers, miners, machinists and mechanics." And yet our colleges and schools go on manufacturing "closet men and orators" as though the supply had not long since exceeded the demand. How hard it is, too, for one who has been educated in the old curriculum to turn his back on it and slap his alma mater in the face. Even Mr. Stuart, so earnest in his appeal for men educated to practical affairs, cannot quite forego the temptation to say a word for that method which has left the resources of his state more undeveloped than those are in some of the states that were in a savage state when Virginia was an old settlement. His argument that "we should hold on to the classics," etc., etc., has been followed in the Old Dominion until the age is half a century ahead of her. Life is too short to spend half of it in studies to strengthen the mind. Better are those which strengthen both mind and muscle and prudence, the men in demand everywhere in this active working age.

Oregon has generally been so free from having wind storms, that what would be termed a small affair in this line, in some countries, excites if it does not frighten people here. But the storm in January last year, and the whirlwind which shook up the busy little town of Gervais a day or two ago, were violent enough to satisfy any desire which the average inhabitant of this slow country may have to hear the wind blow. A few more such elemental disturbances and Oregon's good name for quietness will suffer damage. However, we are doing quite as well as the average of the people of the United States or any other country this winter. East of the Rocky mountains excessive coldness has prevailed, and California has been much more damaged by high water. Oregon is as well prepared for the perihelion as the rest of the world.

The census reports show that the prisons of this country contain 47,769 convicts, or about one in every 1090 of the entire population—a rather startling fact, but were all the criminals in the prisons the showing would be far worse.

URDAY MORNING, FEB. 5, 1881.

CITY.

FROM A CARRIAGE.—Councilman J. S. Kel- e misfortune yesterday to meet with a se- ent. About 1 o'clock while driving down street with a hired man, in his buggy, one ains gave way. The horse started up at a ace which was accelerated until the burly man and his companion were flying through at break-neck speed. On reaching Fourth the hired man was pitched headlong to the sustaining some severe bruises. Councilller stuck to the seat until Third street was , when the carriage came in violent collision large shade tree. The shock was so heavy Mr. Keller was thrown nearly 30 feet. His were severely cut and his body painfully in a number of places. He was placed in a and conveyed to his home at once, and his in- dressed. Although painful, his injuries are nsidered of no dangerous nature.

tous Ride.—Last Sunday Miss Jane Smith, ides in the Eagle creek settlement, in Clack. unty, was thrown from her horse by the aniecoming frightened and swerving suddenly. Miss Smith's clothing caught on the pomo saddle and she was suspended by it until had run over half a mile to her home. rieved she was senseless, but soon recovered ousness, and, strange to say, was not seriously nt painfully bruised. The horse she was when thrown was a large one and she was d clear of the ground, and her bruises are sup- to have been caused from striking trees and while on her fearful ride. Her clothing was ost entirely torn from her.

BUILDING ASSOCIATION.—Recently a meeting was ld by the stockholders of the Odd Fellows' Building Association, of this city. The following board directors was elected: A. G. Walling, C. A. Dolph, arles Hegele, J. H. Lyon, Wm. Braden, E. St. n and T. H. Crawford, being a re-election of the board. The executive officers chosen were as lows: President, A. G. Walling; vice-president, St. John; treasurer, Charles Hegele; secretary, A. Gambell. Under the excellent management of above board for the past six years, the society is a very prosperous condition, and besides paying ights, the sum of $30,000 has been distributed as dends to the stockholders, the most of whom are mbers of the order.

DISCIPLINING DRUNKARDS.—A general order reved at headquarters of the department of the Cobia from division headquarters orders that hereer no applications from company and post manders, addressed to the adjutant general, asking the discharge of enlisted men on account of nkenness or worthlessness, will be entertained or forwarded from these headquarters, the general the army having decided and declared that "comy commanders must do their best to discipline nkards."

OPEN TEMPERANCE MEETING.—The regular meetof this organization will take place at 7:30 this ning, and will be addressed by Rev. Mr. Snashall others. Readings and recitations by Miss Camilla son and Miss Georgie Carpenter. Piano solo by Brown; instrumental duet by Miss Breyman Dr. Rex. The new grand piano which the society just purchased is one of the finest instruments the city, and will be used this evening for the time. A cordial invitation to all.

EINTRACHT ELECTION.—This society held semi-annual meeting last night and elected the lowing officers for the ensuing term: President, chard Gerdes; vice-president, U. Zeitfuchs; reding secretary, G. Harold; financial secretary, ius Dilg; treasurer, Wm. Linderman; property- , H Kessler; librarian, Louis Permin; commit- to visit sick, J. Wrage, Louis Schmidt, Lorenzo lhelm; trustee in place of Mr. Gerdes, Jacob ertner.

FEAST OF PURIFICATION.—The Feast of Purification, February 2d, was a day of special joy at St. y's Academy, in this city, says the Sentinel. At early hour in the morning Miss Katherine Mu- from the mission of Baker City, now known religion as Sister Mary Pancratius, received the veil from the hands of Most Rev. Archbishop ers. His grace preached a brief but eloquent on appropriate to the occasion.

PROPOSED ORGAN CONCERT.—The new pipe-organ the Taylor street church, will be in place next , when it is proposed to give a grand concert. Knopfell, of San Francisco, one of the finest ists in this country, will preside at the organ. features are already perfecting which promise ke this the finest entertainment of the kind witnessed in this city. Due notice will be hereafter.

DELAYED.—The train on the N. P. R. R., bound alama, was delayed some hours on Thursday to a heavy landslide near Hallett's cut. The did not reach Kalama until 6 o'clock Thursday evening. In consequence of the delay there was ough connection.

ADRIFT.—A correspondent, writing from the es says: A scow owned by Messrs. Borthwick , was cut adrift by ice a few days ago landing at the Cascades, and was carried over falls. However the scow fortunately on the rocks and the crew was rescued by of a rope.

—A Chinaman named Loy Mow, who der of the athletes at the Chinese theater, rested last night by officer Mott as accessory attempted burglary at the store of Soung Ye. It is said that Met Hsang, who was arrested day on the same charge will prove an alibi.

GIVE A SOCIABLE.—The ladies of the First yterian church intend giving a sociable on the ing of the 14th inst (St. Valentine's day), at the great feature will be a postoffice, mand by the young ladies. Further notice will be in due time.

FOR DESERTION.—A sailor named Charles was arrested yesterday by the United States marshal on a charge of deserting from the Corsair. He was examined yesterday before d States Commissioner Lamson and held to an-

ORDERED FOR DUTY.—Col. H. Clay Wood, who the position of assistant adjutant general for department of the Columbia for several years, been assigned to the department of Arkansas as tant general of that department.

GOING AHEAD.—The East Portland correspondof the Telegram says that 15 new houses are in process of construction in Stephens' addiand in Brooklyn. This certainly bespeaks encouraging prosperity.

STEAMER ARRIVED.—The steamer Columbia ard here yesterday evening from San Francisco passengers, freight and mails. Heavy fogs a rough bar made the voyage unusually long and WOOD LOST.—Large quantities of wood along the Columbia, we understand, has been lost, owto the sudden rise of the river. Several parties heavy losers by the rise.

LARGE MAIL.—The steamship Columbia brought very large mail—102 sacks in all. To distribute amount of mail called for no small amount of ivity among the clerks.

SUPREME COURT.—By a dispatch from Salem it is rned that the supreme court has adjourned until t Wednesday.

PERSONAL.

Rev. Father White left last week for McMinnville, hill county, to succeed Father Gibney as pastor that mission.

Rev. Archbishop Seghers left yesterday morning Umatilla Indian reservation. He will be absent about two weeks.

Mr. Wm. G. Chance, formerly an attaché of THE OREGONIAN, returned to Portland Thursday from Eastern Oregon. He goes to Tillamook this morning on a visit to relatives.

Gen. R. V. Ankeny, U. S. land agent, and Dr Whitaker, the agent on the part of the state, who have for several months past been in the field selecting swamp lands, are now in the city awaiting the return of good weather.

H. W. Thielsen, paymaster for the O. R. & N. Co., and A. McKinale, of the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Company, arrived last evening from Umatilla, having traveled on the day and night of the 3d 30 miles in a small boat, 40 miles on foot and 35 miles on a hand car.

AMUSEMENTS.

Mr. Robert McWade and all the members of his dramatic company returned last evening from a two weeks' professional tour to the sound and Victoria. The engagement, we understand, was very successful. This afternoon a matinee performance will be given on which occasion Rip Van Winkle will be produced. Prices as usual for matinee. This evening the company will appear for the last time in the great play of Rip Van Winkle. No one should fail to see Mr. McWade in his splendid impersonation of this character. He will be supported by the full company.

THE SOCIAL WORLD.

The week past has been more than ordinarily dull. Following is our usual summary:

PERSONAL.

Mr. Claude Thayer of Salem spent last Sunday in Portland.

Mr. A. W. Stowell of Eugene was in town during the week.

Mrs. J. B. Waldo of Salem is visiting her mother. Mrs. Humason.

Capt. H. H. Pierce, 21st infantry, arrived home from San Francisco on Monday.

Mr. S. Feuchtwanger returned on the steamer yesterday from a visit to San Francisco.

Miss Rebecca Knott returned Monday from a visit to the family of Judge Burnett of Corvallis.

Mr. Thos. Strong has taken the residence Ninth and Yamhill, having disposed of his cottage to Mr. E. M. Hall, purser on the O. R. & N. Co.'s line.

Bishop Paddock, recently appointed to Washington territory, preached his farewell sermon on Sunday the 16th ult., at St. Peter's P. E. church, New York. He had been pastor of that church for more than twenty-five years.

SOCIAL NOTES.

A children's party was held at Col. McCraken's residence last evening.

A whist party occupied Thursday evening pleasantly at the residence of Mr. G. H. Durham, Twelfth street.

The Young People's Social Union will meet next Tuesday evening, at the residence of Mrs Sutton, corner Ninth and Morrison.

It is stated that Lieut. Frank A. Edwards of the 1st cavalry, will be married soon to Miss Mary Reed, daughter of Hon. Alex. Reed, receiver of the land office at Walla Walla.

A young student was asked by his sweetheart, who had an uncommonly thick head of hair, what he thought of it, and he absently answered that he thought it would present a fine field for the study of natural history. They were never married.

A warning to brides was given at a recent Chicago wedding, at which there were six ushers, eight bridesmaids and a best man. The wedding party got safely into the church, but the struggle of the bridesmaids for the odd man on coming out was a sight to behold.

Integrity Lodge No. 26, A. O. U. W., of Walla Walla, gave a very pleasant social Thursday evening of last week. Although the affair was confined to members of the order, about 40 couples were present. The enjoyment was keen and general. The lodge will give another social soon on the occasion of its first anniversary.

The ladies and gentlemen of Vancouver post will give an entertainment at the new hall next Friday evening, on which occasion will be presented the comedy "Uncle's Will." Lieutenants Bonesteel and Patton, and Miss Moore, will assume the leading roles. The new scenery and stage properties will be available on this occasion.

No Paris woman who is anybody ever wears any other than silk underclothes, and the most fashionable color for that, as well as many other articles of dress, including the corset, is red. A celebrated modiste says: "It would be quite impossible to produce the same effects on an English or American figure, for the reason that so much and bungling underclothing is worn. A French woman has everything to fit her figure exactly, thin and fine in material; and regards a fold or wrinkle as a device of the arch enemy to injure her appearance."

FIRST ANNIVERSARY RECEPTION.

Wednesday evening Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Tibbetts pleasantly entertained a number of friends at their residence, corner of C and East Park streets, the occasion being the first anniversary of their wedding day. It was an enjoyable affair throughout, thoroughly hospitable and in every way delightful. Among those present were: Rev. and Mrs. T. L. Eliot, Capt. and Mrs. Archie Pease, Mr. and Mrs. Al. Raleigh, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Child, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Spaulding, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Pope, Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Knowles, Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. James Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Pope, Mrs. C. A. Pope, Mrs. Herring, Miss Herring, Misses Lulu Marshall, Mamie Pope, Fannie Raleigh, Mollie Caples, Capt. Geo. A. Pease, Capt. Seymour (of the ship Durham), Judge L. B. Stearns, Capt. Sprague and Messrs Sam'l Herring, Jas. Moore, Jr., Ed. Watkins, Fred Watkins, Art. Anthony, Wm. Harris, P. Barker, Edward Barker, Wm. Curry and Jas. Moffett.

DOWNING-M'KINNEY NUPTIALS AT TURNER.

One of the most enjoyable social events of the winter in Marion county occurred on Thursday of last week at the residence of Mrs. Matilda McKinney at Turner, the occasion being the marriage of Miss Henrietta McKinney and Mr. Henry Downing, of Sublimity. The ceremony was performed on the east porch of the residence by Elder S. C. Adams, of the Christian church of Salem, in the presence of about 125 relatives and friends. As the final words were pronounced the warm sunlight flooded them—a harbinger of joy to come. The bridesmaids were the sister of the bride Miss Mary E. McKinney and Miss Dorcas Johns. The groom was supported by Messrs. John McKinney and C. A. Johns. After the ceremony and congratulations, followed a sumptuous banquet, consisting of all the luxuries a hospitable mansion can afford.

The happy couple received the following presents: Silver cake basket, John W. McKinney; silver casters, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Sehlbrede; silver pickle stand, E. S. McKinney; Webster's unabridged dictionary, Mrs. M. E. Adams and Miss Ann E. McKinney; silver forks, Mrs. R. C. Thomas and Mrs. E. E. McKinney; fruit dish, Mr. and Mrs. McConnell; Majolica fruit dish, Mr. and Mrs. S. Condit; set of silver teaspoons, Dr. and Mrs. Skiff; set of silver tablespoons, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Brown; silver butter knife, Willie Skiff; silver syrup mug, Prof. J. T. Gregg; silver sugar shell, Miss Alice Riches; pair of silver napkin rings, C. H. Cannon and W. T. Riches; silver sugar shell, Miss Nettie Skiff; set of napkins, Mrs. Jennie Condit; set of mats, Miss Alice Meggenson; glass set, Mrs. and Mr. O. P. Taylor; strawberry dish and glass goblets, Mrs. and Mr. W. J. Cromwell; glass set, Mark Skiff; china toilet set, Dorcas Johns, Edna Smith and Mary E. McKinney; pair of panel vases, Mayro, Fannie and Alice McKinney; set of toilet mats, Mrs. R. E. Thomas; rosewood thread case, Mr. and Mrs. Uriah Whitney; chromos, Frank and Paul Skiff; set of glass desert dishes, Sadie Condit; pair of flower vases, Estella Skiff; fruit dish, Mrs. W. C. Morriss; pair of vases, Miss Mary Condit.

The following day the same company which attended the wedding ceremony were entertained to a sumptuous dinner by the groom's father, Mr. Geo. S. Downing, near Sublimity.

LEVY-MARKS WEDDING AT SACRAMENTO.

Mr. Marcus Levy of Sacramento, was married on the 2d ult. to Miss Jennie Marks, sister of Mrs. L. Samuel of this city. The wedding is spoken of by the Sacramento press as the grandest that ever took place in Jewish circles in that city. The ceremony was performed at 11 A. M., at the residence of the bridegroom's father, Mr. M. Levy, No. 1415 Fourth street, Rev. M. Block officiating. A breakfast followed at 12, to which sixty of the immediate relatives of the contracting parties were invited. From 2 to 6 P. M. a reception was held at the new residence of the young couple. During the four hours, nearly five hundred persons called. In the evening they were tendered a reception by the Eureka club. The toilets worn on both occasions were fine beyond description. The following morning Mr. and Mrs. Levy left for San Francisco, and held a reception Tuesday from 2 to 5 P. M. at the Palace hotel. The presents at the wedding, which included two magnificent sets of furniture and any quantity of silverware, filled two large rooms. One of the most valued though not the costliest, was a silver pitcher and salver from the Ladies' Benevolent society, to the bride, who has been their efficient secretary for several years. Both bride and groom are well known and highly respected among the Hebrew residents of this city.

THE RIVER FALLING

At Harrisburg and Junction, but Rising Slowly Here.

The flood is about over. The river here may rise two feet more, bringing it up to last month's high water mark, but it cannot go higher unless heavy rains should set in to-day. The east side train went through 22 inches of water over the track in Clackamas bottoms, and got to Jefferson. The mail was conveyed from there to Albany on a hand car, and from Albany back to the train by the same means. The train will leave as usual this morning with mails. Following are yesterday's telegrams to the O. R. & N. Co.:

5:30 A. M.

Harrisburg—River rising 1 inch per hour; rose 1 inch per hour last night.

Corvallis—River now 22 or 23 feet above low water mark; rising 2 or 3 inches per hour; rained all night; raining now with strong south wind.

Albany—River rising 5 inches per hour; now 25 feet above low water; raining.

Salem—Rose 3 feet since 4 o'clock yesterday; rising 3 inches per hour.

Oregon City—River rose about 10 inches last night

Salem, 11:25 A. M.—River rising 3 inches per hour; 25 feet above low water mark; raining hard.

Corvallis, 11:30 A. M.—River 4 feet below January flood; rose 1 inch last hour.

Harrisburg, 12:20—River has fallen 5 inches in last 3 hours.

Eugene, 8 A. M.—River has fallen 8 inches.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

Junction, 6:25 P. M.—Water receded 12 inches since morning; was not as high within two feet as before; no damage reported.

Harrisburg, 5:56 P. M.—Water falling rapidly; no losses reported; weather clear.

Eugene City, 8 P. M.—Since 1 o'clock this morning the river has fallen four feet. It is now eight feet below highest water of this season. It rained very heavily for six hours this morning, which will raise the river about two feet. Clear now and much cooler.

Salem, 8 P. M.—River rising about half an inch an hour. Now thirty feet above low water mark. It is falling above, and will probably recede here before morning. Weather clear.

Albany, 7:30 P. M.—The river is twenty-eight feet above low-water mark; five feet lower than in January, and is rising one inch per hour. It is probably near its highest. Business circles generally are depressed.

Corvallis, 7:30 P. M.—Water three feet four inches lower than last month's highest point. It is rising steadily one inch per hour.

THE COLUMBIA.

The line was down beyond the Cascades all day yesterday and telegrams were not received from points farther east:

Cascades, 8:30 A. M.—Cloudy; down stream wind; thermometer 40; river rose 10 inches at Cascades; 14 inches at Upper Cascades last night.

10:45 A. M.—River rose 4 inches since 8 A. M.

5 P. M.—Cloudy; down stream wind; thermometer 40; river rose 8 inches since 3 A. M.

THE HOOCHINO DISTILLERS.

Arrival in Portland of the Seven Persons Charged with Illicit Distilling.

In custody of Master G. C. Hanus and Mr. Fazotte, the seven men who were arrested at Sitka and Fort Wrangel, charged with illicit manufacture of "hoochino," arrived in this city last evening. A full account of the arrest of these parties was telegraphed from Port Townsend and has appeared in these columns. The officers having the prisoners in charge arrived at Tacoma from Port Townsend on Wednesday evening at 6 o'clock. They left for Kalama Thursday morning on the train, but were delayed four hours by reason of a heavy land slide near Hallett's cut. They reached Kalama Thursday evening at 6 o'clock. They were met there by U. S. Marshal Kearney, who left here Thursday. Yesterday they took the Astoria boat and arrived here about 6:30.

At the wharf the prisoners were met by several U. S. deputy marshals and escorted to the office of Mr. Kearney. Subsequently the prisoners were taken to the county jail for secure keeping. Warrants will be issued early this morning against the prisoners and their examination will probably take place today before U. S. Commissioner Lamson. The names of the prisoners are: William Thompson, M. Shinkoff, Dimitry Sipozim, T. Savillione, W. Lublay, Michael King, Thomas Arnold.

King and Arnold were arrested at Fort Wrangel. The other five were arrested at Sitka.

THE GERVAIS BLOW.

A Scene of Indescribable Horror.

LIST OF THE CHILDREN MOST SERIOUSLY HURT.

Houses and Fences Prostrated and Stock Killed.

GERVAIS, Feb. 4.—The storm of yesterday struck the east side of Gervais at about 3 o'clock in the afternoon, sweeping everything before it. It came in a southeasterly direction, and was about 200 yards in width. It was first seen about a mile from town, where it struck A. Woodington's place, demolishing outhouses in a fearful manner, picking up the dwelling house, setting it twenty feet from its foundation and pitching the inmates out into the storm. Some of them were badly bruised up, but none seriously injured. The storm swept through the fields at a terrific rate, picking up sheep and fences like birds and hurling them into the air twenty or thirty feet. A number of sheep were killed. As it neared town, it narrowed down to about fifty yards in width and came in a zig zag current, taking everything before it, striking the school house on one corner. The children all ran out to save their lives and the scene that followed was terrible. They were lifted into the air from 20 to 30 feet among flying timbers, sidewalk planks and debris from barns and fences, and all fell to the ground senseless. Some had their arms broken, some their heads fractured, and all more or less bruised, but fortunately none were killed. Mr. Bradley's house was taken two feet from its foundation and shattered almost to pieces. It so happened that the family were out visiting or they would have been killed, as a number of neighboring outhouses and barns were thrown up against it. The windows and doors of Mr. S. Seguire's house was also broken in and the house more or less damaged. From here the cyclone raised into the air in the shape of a black cloud and was seen to fall again about three miles distant. It was reported that it struck near the narrow gauge railroad, tearing it all to pieces, but we have no definite news at this writing.

It was very fortunate that it changed its course as it entered town, as it would have swept the whole city clean, the eastern part of the town not being so thickly settled. The damages are not very heavy, probably $5000, to property and stock. The injured children have nearly all recovered consciousness and are doing well, with the exception of Mr. Rock, a young man 21 years of age, who has his arm broken in two places and is also internally injured. He is in a critical condition. Ernest Brown is also very badly hurt and has his skull badly fractured.

Following is a list of those most seriously hurt: Jay K. Barnes, seriously; Bennie Mitchell, slightly; Rosa Mitchell, slightly; Tom Murphy, slightly; Felix Croly, slightly; Antoine Seguire, slightly. Thirty or forty more were bruised.

It was a terrible scene to behold and made the blood run cold to see fathers and mothers picking up their prostrate children from the ditches and mudholes and from among the debris. The scene will never be forgotten by our citizens and can only be described by those that witnessed it as a most terrible and heart-rending calamity.

THE OPERA LAST NIGHT.

Turn Halle was well filled last night at the presentation by the singing section of the Turn Verein of the very pleasing comic opera "Der Mordgrundbruck," (the murder ground bridge). The music is light and cheerful, and many of the melodies are "catching." Only one chorus, the opening number, was presented from the stage, the remainder being sung from the wings. The whole opera is in the hands of four persons "Kunibert," (Mr. L. Levy), "Almagunde," (Mrs. C. A. Alisky), "Eduard," (Mr J. Leki) and "Sassafras," (Mr. G. Reul). It gives them wide scope in singing and acting, and each soloist had a proper conception of the role essayed. Mr. Rau has a splendid bass voice, powerful and clear in the upper tones, reserved in the lower, and he sings correctly. He has histrionic ability of a high order, and gives evidence of being perfectly at home behind the footlights. Mrs. Alisky, always painstaking in her efforts on the stage, appeared to good advantage in two very pretty songs which were loudly encored, for one of which she was called before the curtain. Mr. Leki's acting and singing were in good taste, and were well received. His voice, a tenor of more than ordinary compass, is cultivated and pleasing. Mr. Levy, the favorite comedian of the Verein, sustained his well earned reputation. Mr. Franz created no little merriment with fine reading of short, humorous prologues before each act.

The opera was enthusiastically received throughout. By general request, it will be repeated to-morrow (Sunday) evening, and be followed by a "Kraenschen."

MILITARY AND PERSONAL.

[Vancouver Independent.]

Major Henry James is still figuring to be again placed on the active list of the army, working with the senate military committee.

Lieut. Price, U. S. engineer corps, with his wife, arrived up on the last steamer, and goes on duty with Col. G. L. Gillespie, at Portland.

The Army and Navy Register says Mr. Brents' bill to allow army officers on the retired list to hold civil offices in the territories is one that should pass.

Headquarters are still without telegraphic communications with nearly all the posts in the department, as well as with the east, and military business is at a stand-still.

The average attendance at the post reading rooms for January shows an increase over December. Major W. H. Boyle, 21st infantry, is in charge of the rooms this month.

Major G. H. Weeks, formerly depot quartermaster, at this post, has been ordered from Fort Leavenworth to Little Rock, Ark., for duty as chief quartermaster of the department of Arkansas.

The reimbursements for which Lieut. E. S. Farrow, 21st infantry, has applied to congress for property burned at the barracks and lost in the Bannock campaign, amounted to about $2500.

Capt. L. Cass Forsyth, A. Q. M., who recently left this department for the east, is now on a board in New York city for the purpose of examining and reporting upon the merits of the neptunite process of the International Chemical Company of New York for treating cloths.

Lieut. F. H. E. Ebstein, 21st infantry, is well up on his recruiting detail, for besides being depot adjutant at David's Island, he is in command of Co. B of that station, composed of the music boys. Lieut. Ebstein can stand about as much duty as any other officer of his size and rank in the army.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE CONVENTION.

The ninth annual convention of the Oregon State Woman Suffrage Association will meet in the Y. M. C. A. hall in this city on Tuesday next, and continue its sessions throughout the week till Friday night, only omitting Wednesday evening. Sessions will be held at 10 A. M. and 2:30 and 7:30 P. M. of each day, except the evening of Wednesday. The exercises promise to be exceedingly interesting and varied in character. The services of popular speakers, musicians, essayists, readers and singers have been secured in aid of the cause.

The programme for Tuesday evening will consist of piano and violin duet, by Miss Nellie Waltz and Miss Dora McCord; a brief address of welcome by Mrs. A. S. Duniway; song by Mrs. J. A. Cruzan, with piano accompaniment by Prof. Vinton; ten minutes' speech by Rev. J. A. Gray; music, "Crystallino," by Dr. O. B. Bird; ten minutes' speech by Rev. J. A. Cruzan; reading by Miss Augusta Allen; song, by Mrs. O. B. Bird; ten minutes' speech by Rev. H. K. Hines; piano and violin duet by Misses McCord and Waltz, and ten minutes' speeches by Rev. T. L. Eliot and Hon. J. F. Caples. Exercises of equal merit are promised all through the week, of which due notice will be given. Delegates from different parts of the state will be in attendance. Admission to the meetings free. The public cordially invited.

DROWNED.

The Ochoco Pioneer of January 22d, contains the following:

On Friday of last week, during the high water, Minor Bilch, living near Boulter's, on Trout creek, in attempting to cross that stream was washed from his horse and drowned. The body was found half a mile below and decently buried on Thursday last. A man named Smith is also supposed to have perished in the same stream, as those living below him saw his house float by, and nothing has since been seen or heard of the owner. Parties are in search of the body. S. S. Brown had a very narrow escape while attempting to cross with a load of lumber. The horses were washed off their feet and carried rapidly down stream, Brown losing everything but his life, he barely reaching the opposite shore. Doubtless there have been many lives lost throughout the state, and Trout creek appears to have furnished her full quota.

SATURDAY MORNING, FEB. 5, 1881.

AMONG THE AMERICANS.

George Jacob Holyoake's Views of the Products of American Ingenuity.

[From the Manchester Co-operative News.]

While at Philadelphia I paid a visit to the Maple Spring Hotel of Wissahickon, occupied until his death by Joseph Smith, the "shoemaker," described in my "History of Co-operation," and died a few days after having had read to him (to his great satisfaction, as I was glad to learn) my account of his career in England. Mrs. Smith and her family still occupy the hotel. It was midnight when I entered it. Though anxious to see his museum it was not until next morning that I cared to do it. The objects in it were carved by his own hand, out of laurel roots, which abound on the banks of the sparkling Wissahickon, before which his hotel stands. In 1839 I saw the Social Hall he built at Salford, which showed conventional prettiness in the use of colored glass, and I believe Mr. Smith had no originality, except that of humorous audacity on the platform. I expected to find his museum commonplace and pretentious. Whereas, I found the various rooms bearing the appearance of a forest of ingenuity, which a day's study would not exhaust. There was nothing tricky about it. Its objects were as unexpected as the scenes in the Garden of Eden must have been to Adam. Noah's ark never contained such creatures. Dore never produced a wandering Jew so weird as the laurel Hebrew who strode through these mimic woods. Scenes from the Old Testament, groups of American orators, statesmen and railway directors started up in the strange underwood, or held forth in the branches of trees. Dr. Darwin would require a new theory of evolution to account for the wonderful creatures—beasts, birds and insects—which confront you everywhere. An American Dante, if there be such a one, might find ample material for a new poem in this wooden inferno. The mind of man never conceived such grotesque creatures before; yet this was the work of an old agitator, executed between his seventieth and eightieth year, with no material but roots of trees, with no instrument but his pocket-knife and a pot of paint, and no resources but his marvelous imagination. There were snakes that would fill you with terror; stump orators that would convulse you with laughter. His satanic majesty strode on horseback; Mrs. Beelzebub is the quaintest old lady conceivable. The foreign devils all had a special individuality. There was the Mahometan devil, the Indian devil practising the Grecian bend, the Russian devil eating a broiled Turk, the Irish devil bound for Donnybrook fair, the French devil practising a polka, the Dutch devil calling for some beer, the Chinese devil delivering a Fourth of July oration. I observed no American devil—let us hope they have not one. Mr. Smith's description of his creations endowed every creature with living attributes. He illustrated his favorite doctrine of man being the creature of circumstances by saying it was coming to live in Schuylkill county which first developed in him the latent slumbering organ of rootology. The Wissahickon museum was the most original thing I saw in America. I never felt the value of a man of energy so much as when I missed his animated face as I entered the spacious hall of St. George to speak and saw it scarcely half full. Had he been living he would have had it crowded. He had the contagious enthusiasm of a hundred men in him.

PASSING AWAY.

The American closes an article on George Eliot with these words: "The great writer has silently taken her place among the immortals, and the masses of the English speaking people turn to her grave with an almost sacred affection. This loving appreciation will deepen with the march of the years, the more quickly that George Eliot is released from the perils of idle gossips and unwise friends. Happy they who die in the maturity of power, and the hight of merited success! George Eliot, than whom not one of the English writers of the nineteenth century is more secure of remembrance while the language lives, has had this good fortune; the achievements of her life will ever be cherished, while already

> "Its discords quenched by meeting harmonies,
> Die in the large and charitable air."

While we read the thought comes how soon it must become the duty of the press to announce the decease of the last of the illustrious few who, in the fields of literature, have charmed this generation. In our own country the mind turns instinctively to Emerson, Whittier, Longfellow, Holmes, Lowell and a few others, while over the sea each ringing name, with one exception, is that of a man who is groping in the twilight of life. It is a fashion to say that the world is so adjusted that when one falls out of the ranks of the living there is another to take his place, but it is not so in all things. In the business of life it is true, in those pursuits where success is the result of labor and of wisdom it is true; but genius has its periods and when it dazzles the world with a constellation of immortals, it rests. When Michael Angelo dropped his brush and his chisel there was no one to pick them up, there has been no one since. When Shakespeare dropped his pen there was no one that could wield it, there has been no one since. With Byron went out the electric light of poetry, and though many have essayed to kindle the flame since, it has only been revealed in fitful flashes, never with Byron's continuous glow. The most sacred chambers of literature which hold the seats where real genius enters to charm the world for a period seem about to be closed. The next generations threaten to be given to science and the higher mechanics, and to such a strife for great fortunes as was never seen before. Through the disturbances which will be sure to follow when the links which hold the rich and poor together are stretched too far, sorrows and upheavals will come, which perhaps will only end in exhaustion. But after that will be a pause, and as some of the finest displays of genius have been given the calm which has succeeded extreme suffering and exhaustion, so it may be hoped that all the achievements of the present and the past may be eclipsed in our own country. But for the present some glorified mantles are about to fall and there are no hands, which as yet, have given a sign of being worthy to take them up—no forms which can wear them. When will England have another George Eliot? Who in America will take Emerson's place? When will France have another Hugo? It is plain enough that some farewells are soon to be spoken above a sacred few whose exits will leave vacant places in this world for a long time to come.

A Cheap and Durable Cistern.

[American Agriculturist.]

An abundance of rain water for family use, for the barnyard, and irrigation in the garden, is still a great desideratum in our rural districts. The great bar to this water supply is the anticipated expense. It costs money to excavate and line the sides of a cistern with brick and stone. Most farm houses have no provision for washing except well water, drawn with the bucket, and this often hard, and the yard and barn cellar are without any water for stock. A cistern that will hold all the water that falls upon the house, or the barn, is within reach of every thrifty farmer, and will pay for itself every year in saving labor, and in the health and comfort of the family, and in the care of the farm stock. A neighbor of ours, who is a gardener as well as a farmer, built a cistern for his green house last year, and liked it so well that he has built another this fall for his barn and garden. The first item of expense was the labor of excavating on the south side of the barn, where the frost does not penetrate very deep. The excavation is about ten feet deep, ten feet in diameter at the bottom, and twelve feet at the top. The soil is gravelly loam at the top, and compact gravel below. But sand, if it were compact enough not to cave, would answer just as well. The sides of the cistern are made as even as possible, and a wash of Portland cement is applied with a broom to the bottom and sides. This dries very rapidly, and four or five coatings will make a perfectly tight and strong basin to hold all the water that will ever fall into it. The cost of the cement is very small, and the thin crust, backed by the solid subsoil, is just as good and durable as mason work of brick or stone. For a covering he used chestnut timber of one foot in diameter, hewn upon one side, upon which chestnut plank two inches thick were laid. Two leaders conduct the water from the eaves of the barn into the cistern. A man hole was left at the top large enough for the cleaning of the cistern, and for the insertion of the pump. The plank was covered with about two feet of earth, which is a sufficient protection against frost in this latitude. The cistern will hold 6000 gallons of water, or more, and will furnish an abundant supply of water for stock, and for irrigation in ordinary seasons. The whole cost for labor, timber and cement was about fifteen dollars. Most farms will furnish the necessary labor and lumber, and the only money outlay would be for the Portland cement. This cement will harden under water, and become as solid as stone. It is entirely practicable for almost any farmer to build a cistern of the kind described, and to have a good supply of water for his cattle during the winter. Build a cistern.

If the barn is full you can hitch your horse in the trees across the road. Pearing begins at early candle-light. Don't forget your jackknife. John H. Johnston." The replies were all in the same primitively rural style, one of which read: "Waverly Palace, N. Y., 12-7-'80.—Wife first reckoned how she could not come no way; cause she had the candles to run, the sassiges to make, the carpet rags to color and a chunk of cloth to set in Brie's trousers; and the old mare has got a chestnut in one of her ears, and is lame a little, but we are coming if we have to walk. Perkins' oldest boy is coming over to milk and feed the chickens, so that we can get away early. Wife is all in a pucker about how to get herself up, whether to wear her linsey-woolsey and calash, or her new speckled chintz and bunnit. Unless you send word by Hubbell's boy when he comes over to milk in the morning we shall come just as we are. Your obedient servant, ——. P. S.—Can you lend us a lantern to come home with?" The refreshments consisted of pumpkin pie, apple pie, doughnuts, cheese and cider, and the occasion was one of genuine mirth and enjoyment.—Troy Times.

THE CHIEF OF POLICE REPORT AGAIN.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

The report of the chief of police of this city, which has so often and so kindly been referred to in various ways, attracted my attention more especially in that department which related to and gave the nativity of the 2578 persons who were arrested during the year under review. Fifty-seven per cent. of arrests for crimes directly chargeable to drunkenness was not an especial astonishment to me, as it is I believe less than the average; the recommendation in reference to a workhouse did not excite me as I was sure it would not be acted upon, and the idea was not new by any means. The objection to issuing licenses for saloons indiscriminately, and the recommendation for no licenses to free and easy saloons read well, but when I remembered that four out of the nine of our city council were dispensers of the beverage I did not hope for anything radical under that head. These items I say did not, though interesting, claim my especial attention, as did the figures giving the nativity of all the persons arrested during the year 1880, and as this is a feature not noticed by you in your review of the report, nor touched upon by any one else that I have heard of, I beg to call the attention of your readers to it. Here are the figures made from the report:

No. of arrests made	2578
Natives of the United States	981
Natives of Great Britain	986
Germany	191
China	134
Sweden	73
France	45
Norway	41
Poland	22
Canada	17
Italy	11
Other countries	58

It will be seen from the above that only about 38 per cent. of all the arrests, were of natives of the United States, Great Britain actually supplying more than this country, 966, and of which the Green Isle furnishes 665.

I am not familiar with like statistics of other cities of this country, but I confess it caused me to inquire seriously of myself whether the United States can maintain itself and its republican form of government against the results that may in the future be occasioned by the immigration to our land of not only the oppressed of all nations, but the paupers, criminals, lunatics, socialists and discontented of all nations, who having become a burden to their own governments are kindly assisted by them to emigrate to the land of the free, etc.

Now, I hope I may not be misunderstood and accused of making an attack upon all foreigners, for I need not be reminded that we are all descendants of foreigners, or further, that many, very many of our best citizens are foreigners, but what I fear is a disposition in foreign lands to ship to this country their pauper and discontented elements, and throw upon this nation the burden of assimilating and incorporating them into ourselves giving them the ballot, thus making them free and full citizens equal in their power in this respect to the best and most intelligent of our own land. For Sale by Hodge, Davis & Co. and all other druggists.

TROPIC FRUIT LAXATIVE

LIVER PILLS

And the Usual Purgatives,

IS PLEASANT TO TAKE,

And will prove at once the most potent and harmless SYSTEM RENOVATOR and CLEANSER that has yet been brought to public notice. For CONSTIPATION, BILIOUSNESS, HEADACHE, PILES, and all disorders arising from an obstructed state of the system, it is incomparably the best curative extant.

TROPIC-FRUIT LAXATIVE is put up in bronzed tin boxes only. Avoid imitations. Ask your druggist for Descriptive Pamphlet, or address the proprietor,

DR. PAUL M. BRENAN

The Most Successful Physician on the Pacific Coast.

IN THE TREATMENT OF ALL

CHRONIC AND DIFFICULT DISEASES

DR. BRENAN WILL GUARANTEE TO CURE any form of disease of the generative organs or private disease.

He has become an expert in the treatment of disease, weakness and derangement of the reproductive organs of both male and female, including diseases caused by the

FOLLIES OF YOUTH,

Such as SPERMATORRHEA, or SEMINAL WEAKNESS, or LOSS OF PERFECT VITALITY. Nearly two-thirds of all the Chronic Diseases spring, either directly or indirectly, from some derangement of the sexual system, and yet this subject is neglected by the majority of the Medical Profession.

I know that persons who are unfortunate enough to be afflicted by any form of sexual disease have a delicacy in calling upon the proper physician in time, from a sense of modesty and sometimes from ignorance, and permit those diseases to exist until their constitutions become corrupted, their organization broken down and the hope of future happiness blighted, until death becomes a welcome messenger to carry them out of their miserable existence.

Everything strictly confidential under all circumstances.

Lost manhood perfectly restored.

Catarrh, Bronchitis, Throat Disease, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Kidney Complaint and all Diseases of the Eye and Ear, Stomach and Bladder, he can cure without fail.

Consultation Free, and a list of printed questions sent to those living at a distance who cannot consult him personally. Enclose postage stamp for list.

Office—No. 63 First street, between Oak and Pine. Office Hours—From 10 to 12 A. M., 2 to 5 and 7 to 8 P. M.
